A Fateful Beginning in Silverton, Oregon

Bobbie's story begins in the unassuming mountain town of Silverton, Oregon, in 1923. Born into a litter of five puppies to a stray Border Collie, Bobbie's early life was unremarkable. Yet, beneath her unassuming exterior lay a spirit of extraordinary resilience and a deep love for her human caretaker, Lester Moore.

A Heartbreaking Separation

In 1923, Moore's family moved over 3,000 miles (4,800 kilometers) east to Wolcott, Indiana, leaving Bobbie behind with a friend. Heartbroken and homesick, Bobbie escaped her confinement and embarked on a perilous journey to reunite with her beloved family.

An Incredible Transcontinental Trek

Guided by her instincts and a determination that belied her small size, Bobbie traversed vast landscapes, facing treacherous rivers, unforgiving terrain, and countless dangers. Along her arduous six-month journey, she encountered both kindness and hostility from strangers, relying on her wit and survival skills to navigate the unknown.

A Reunion to Remember

Six grueling months after her departure, Bobbie finally reached Wolcott, Indiana. Almost skeletal and nearly blind from cataracts, she stood outside the Moore family's home, barking tirelessly. Her family, stunned and overjoyed, rushed out to embrace the loyal canine who had traveled an incredible distance against all odds.

A Sensational Story Goes Viral

News of Bobbie's astonishing journey spread like wildfire. Newspapers, magazines, and radio stations across the country hailed her as a national hero. Bobbie became a symbol of canine loyalty, perseverance, and the enduring power of the bond between dogs and their humans.

A Triumphant Return to Silverton

In 1924, Bobbie was invited to return to Silverton for a grand homecoming celebration. The entire town turned out to welcome her as a conquering hero. A bronze statue of Bobbie was erected in the town square, forever immortalizing her extraordinary journey.
